

Message from the President of Zand Institute of Higher Education

It is with profound respect and academic pride that I extend my sincere congratulations on the continued publication of The Journal of Language, Identity and the Digital Realm (LIDR). As President of Zand Institute of Higher Education, it is both a pleasure and an honor to witness the steady development of this journal, which has emerged as a distinguished platform for scholarly discourse in the dynamic intersection of language, identity, and digital culture.

In a time of accelerating technological change and increasing complexity in human communication, the presence of such a journal is not only timely but essential. LIDR represents a valuable academic space where interdisciplinary dialogue, theoretical innovation, and research excellence converge.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the entire editorial team. I extend special recognition to Dr. Ayatollah Razmjoo, Editor-in-Chief, for his scholarly leadership, editorial acumen, and steadfast commitment to the advancement of knowledge. I also offer heartfelt thanks to Dr. Shiva Sadighi, Managing Editor, for her tireless dedication, academic insight, and continuous efforts in overseeing the successful realization of this publication.

On behalf of the Zand Institute of Higher Education, I reaffirm our full support for LIDR and wish the journal continued growth, visibility, and academic impact.

With Highest Regards,
Dr. Seyed Ebrahim Hosseini
President of Zand Institute of Higher Education